EDUCATION AGAIN.

Education is the foundation-stone of democracy, according to an accepted axiom, started in the beginning of the century and maintained up to the present day. The axiom has not been much discussed, but education has been handled by so many authors, modern and old, that the subject has finally become threadbare. A well-known French writer has taken the trouble to study the educational status of the principal European nations and has endeavored to portray to a French public the advance of education in the Argentine Republic. M. Hippéau has written about education in this country, without the slightest acquaintance with the nature of its inhabitants or the slightest notion of the heterogeneous elements comprised within its geographical limits. At a distance of 2,000 leagues from the scene of action the distant panorama expands or contracts wonderfully, according to the individual fancy or disposition of the author.

South America in general appears to Europeans as a nebula to the stargazer. We all have prejudices, but none are so deeply rooted as those who have never travelled. Thus a European neophyte, who knows the limits of France or Germany, is likely to wonder much when an unsophisticated individual informs him that there are 20 daily newspapers in a city called Buenos Aires, situated south of the Rio Plata, and capital of a country known as La Patria, to others as the Argentine Republic, and to the bulk of humanity unknown altogether. If in any manner given to literary pursuits he may call a notion that the description of such a very advanced place must interest his countrymen who know nothing about it. He is then turned over to the Argentine acquaintance, who made a report of Sarriente, Lezamis, or Pizarro falls into his hands. The pages of the reports are a glowing picture of the educational state of the country; the die is cast, a book is in embryonic formation and M. Hippéau shows to the Paris public what he knows of education in the world in general and in the Argentine Republic in particular. M. Hippéau is above any misapprehension as to the status of the Argentine Republic in France in Germany, in Russia, but as far as regards the Argentine Republic we may as well state he looks at the picture in a light too rosate and too favorable. Frenchmen, no doubt, will well-peruse the book, but a very satisfactory view of education in the Argentine Republic is not to be obtained from the thanks of the nation, but the schoolmaster of the republic has taken the trouble to dash the false picture by reproducing the figures of Mr. Leguizamón's report in 1875. All due praise may be given to the praiseworthy efforts of Argentine Governments to foster education, but the following figures create a painful impression, since they prove that one of the most backward provinces of the Republic—San Juan—is the most advanced of the country in an educational point of view. Thus only one inhabitant can read or write.

THE COMMERCIAL OF BELGIUM.

One cannot but be struck with the vigour and vitality of Belgian commerce. In the five years embraced between 1866 and 1870 inclusive, the average annual value of the imports into Belgium was $36,960,000. Between 1871 and 1875 inclusive, the corresponding annual average was $39,292,000. In the five years embraced between 1876 and 1880 inclusive, the annual average further expanded to $39,980,000, and in 1881 it rose to the still higher aggregate of $41,512,000.

The value of the exports from Belgium has expanded in very nearly the same progressive fashion. In the five years embraced between 1866 and 1870 inclusive it averaged $36,344,000 per annum. In the next five years, between 1871 and 1875 inclusive, it stood at $38,094,000 per annum, and in the following quinquennial period, between 1876 and 1880 inclusive, it stood at $39,780,000 per annum. In 1881 the aggregate amounted to $38,424,000.

If we combine the value of the imports with the value of the exports, we arrive at an annual average of $75,338,000 for the five years embraced between 1866 and 1870 inclusive, at an annual average of $78,100,000 for the five years, ending with 1875 inclusive, and at an annual average of $80,264,000 for the five years, ending with 1880 inclusive. In 1881 the aggregate of $79,936,000 was attained.

If we contrast this latter average with the corresponding annual average in the five years embraced between 1866 and 1870 inclusive, we find an increase of no less than eighty-four per cent.

If we glance at the public credit of Belgium, we cannot but be struck with its strength and solidity. Thus Belgium 4 per cent bonds at about 103½, Belgium 5 per cent bonds at about 83½, Belgium 3 per cent bonds at about 81½, Belgium 2 per cent bonds at about 79½, Belgium 1 per cent bonds at about 77½,
